Launched in late 2005 and one of the last of this classic models to be built, it will suit the most fastidious of buyers. The M290 offers a brilliant package for a small family or two couples sharing. The entertainers deck provides a twin seat at the forward helm on the starboard side, a wrap-around lounge immediately behind and a wet bar opposite. There is a brand new teak cockpit table plus the original fibreglass table.

Power Boat magazine wrote at the time of their review: “This is a boat that is ideally suited to Australian waters and our boating lifestyle”.

In New Zealand, Trade-A-Boat reported she offered “apartment-like living” and “a well-proportioned boat that will appeal to everyone from the young at heart to retirees”.

The Australian edition of Trade-A-Boat featured her on the front cover.

The M290 was produced as 93 boats over a five year period. This is hull # 89.
